

If one day FM and TV signals can be broadcast from coast to coast without interruption then maybe I would agree. I purchased and support XM radio so I never need to worry about signal loss, finding stations, etc. while driving. I have it programmed to my favorite stations and enjoy every minute of driving now that I have XM. News and weather is one of the best. Do you know how hard it is to travel from region to region and try to find a radio station that fits my listening mood especially when I need to know traffic and weather conditions. XM Radio is one of the greatest inventions and I hope it to be a standard feature in every vehicle one day.

I currently am shopping for a new vehicle and it needs to have a built in XM radio. (Acura TL is currently on top of the list.)
